Not illustrated. 1922 Excerpt: ...in the mean time, increased almost threefold, the number of shipbuilding ways having been enlarged to a capacity of twenty-eight vessels, and the shop facilities and outfitting basins having been correspondingly expanded. Thus New York Shipbuilding Corporation now stands as the largest of its kind in the Western Hemisphere, and equal to the largest establishments of the Old World. THE SUN SHIPBUILDING COMPANY By William G. Daniels, Publicity Manager Looking backward but five short years, we see the uninviting Delaware River frontage of one-half mile extending eastward to the Ridley Creek, a haven for mosquitoes, greenhead flies and frogs--with reed birds in season. Development was a stupendous task, due largely to the impending strife when, on August 14, 1916, it was apparent that the United States of America would A Partial View of the Sun Shipbuilding Company's Plant. be drawn into the world's greatest conflict. Manpower was at a premium; the youth of America, drawn into the vortex to such extent that industries, which developed overnight, were affected by dearth of available men. Necessity brought ideas, and emergency pointed to a solution for, in due time, shipbuilding was under way with hundreds of workers who had lacked experience but in view of the spirit of it all, were soon studiously and energetically turning out steamships which became factors on the seas, and ultimately merged into the composite whole which made possible the turning of the tide of events and the emancipation of the world from autocratic rule. Five shipways of concrete were erected on piling of concrete and capable of building ships up to 550 feet in length thereon. Available for use, almost at the first stages of construction, was the powerhouse, in which structure, at that tim...
